

Input time series data used for training the anomaly detection AI model (which will use dynamically as per different sensors from the historical data of a particular machine)

Output of the anomaly detection AI model, red one shows the anomaly

The demonstration presented above illustrates a key component of our system's pipeline. This segment, which is highlighted in our architectural diagram, plays a crucial role in the overall process flow.

